in the case of "A se Lincoln." The whole idea pervading his speech was opposition to Douglas. He started out with the idea, followed it closely and "concluded" with it. If Douglas had not fur-type and "concluded" with it. If Douglas had not fur nished the theme he would have had nothing to say. He evidently regarded Douolas as a great luminary and was satisfied to bask in his sunshine. This opposition to the Democratic party is the highest tribute which the Republicans can pay it. It is an acknowledgment on their part, that having no principles or policy of their own they can only live by finding fault or opposing 837. He evidently regarded Douglas as a great they can only live by finding fault or opposing the party which possesses the capacity to successfully govern the country. The whole effort of Lincoln was but to give character and position to Mr. Douotas, and to make him a great repreviews to this effect. The New York Regular Democrative of Democratic principles. If Mr. Lincoln had been expressly hired to serve Mr. Douglas, he could not more faithfully perform the task than he did in his speech in this city, on Monday night.

MICHAEL CHRISTIAN GARBER, for a meeting for the "good of the party." They met in the Hot Air office. Long and intense were their deliberations or imbibations, we don't know which preponderated. Finally the Committee resolved npon three matters: First, they declared judicially, officially and Republicanly, that a vacancy does exist in the office of Secretary of State, but upon the whole they thought it inexpedient to make a nomination for the office, for reasons hereafter to be made known to the faithful The prevailing consideration which induced this determination was probably the farce of electing Republican Supreme Judges two years ago and its result. Second, they resolved to memorialize the National (?) Republican Committee to hold the next General Convention of the party in this city. We hope this may be accomplished, as such a Convention will be a little help to our railroads, hotels, saloons esgan of the party. This move was the result of some soits, and for the purpose of aiding the the judgment and partiality of his political friends.

The Atlas "vindicates the truth of history" by the admission that Congressional exclusion was not required to make free States of Oregon and California. This is a censure of the position of Mr. Lincoln, who avows that popular sovereignty will not make a free State. The popular sovereignty Republicans were thrown into a queer dilemma by the fleroe onelaught of Lincoln upon their avowed principles. The Atlas is willing to go a good ways for the union of the Opposition for the sake of success, but it does not seem inclined to surrender its popular sovereignty notions to the dictum of "Old Asz Lincoln."

Correspondence of the Daily State Sentinel. The three Penitentiaries of the State of New York.

New York. Sept. 12, 1850

Entror of Sentinel: —There are in this State three Penitentiaries, besides the one on Blackwell's Island, viz: the Sing Sing, Auburn and Clinton. The Sing Sing is situated on the bank of the Hudson River, 30 miles North of this city; the Auburn is situated in the Western, and the Clinton is the externa Newtern Section of the of the Hudson River, 30 miles North of this city; the Auburn is situated in the Western, and the Clinton in the extreme Northern portion of the State. These three prisons are under the control of management of three State Prison Inspectors, who are elected by the people. Each of the Inspectors have, alternately, for three months, the entire and exclusive control of one of these Prisons. Each inspectors have, alternately, for three months, the entire and exclusive control of one of these Prisons. Each inspectors shave, alternately, for three months, the entire and exclusive control of one of these Prisons. Each inspectors and appoint others in their stead. The Inspectors differ in politics, and have their personal favorites. The practical effect is to produce frequent changes in the officers, and their selection depends more upon political and personal considerations, than it does upon integrity, moral worth, and fitness to discharge the duties of the respective positions. As long ago as 1942, it was said that "the New York Prisons labor under very great disadvantage from political influences that are continually interfering with their supervision, discipline, economy, where each political or party revolution gives them a new supply of officers, or a new set of regulations, must be clearly injurious to the interests of all concerned."

The Sing Sing and Clinton Prisons were originally located with a view to assertain, by actual experiment, if it were possible to release the time, was believed by those employed at them, was to them the ruinous competition of cheap convict labor. The Sing Sing Prison was located over a rich bed of iron ore. The experiment has in each instance, was entired.

MARKELED

The Sing Sing and Clinton Prisons were originally located with a view to ascertain, by actual experiment, if it were possible to release the various mechanical trades from what, at the time, was believed by those employed at them, was to them the ruinous competition of cheap convict labor. The Sing Sing Prison was located near a stone quarry, and the Clinton Prison was located over a rich bed of iron ore. The experiment has in each instance worsed an entire mation of a platform at Charleston, or the selection of candidates to be placed thereupon.

The general prosperity of the country, particularly of the South, is also favorable to a peaceful result of the election contest; and the northern people generally have begun to distrust those leaders, who would persuade them that their interests are in perpetual conflict with those of the slave holding States. The more moderate tone lately held by Mr. Corwin and some other leading Republicans, on the slavery topic, is an indication of sentiment in the party; and no one would be surprised if, before next spring, the doctrine of "irrepressible conflict" and its author should be repudiated by the party.

—Dr. James S. Athon, of Charlestown, is favorably spoken of as the Democratic candidate for Governor of Indiana. Dr. Athon is a sterling Democrat and a most excellent gentleman, and well deserves any honors that may be bestowed upon him.—Louisville Courter.

—A prominent Democrat said to us a few days ago—"You seem to think that Dunham and Hendricks are the only Democrats in the field for Governor. You are mistaken. There is Dr. Athon, as busy as he can be, writing to special friends all over the State."—Atlas. Athon, as busy as he can be, writing to special friends all over the State."—Ailas.
